5. Brief Summary of the Programme:

On the occasion of World Population Day, Dr. D. L. Kashid Patil, Head of the Geography Department, Shri Shahaji Chhatrapati College, gave a lecture at The New College, Kolhapur. Dr. D. L. Kashid Patil dictum that, World Population Day reminds us of the growing challenges and opportunities that come with an increasing global population. It is a day to reflect on issues such as poverty, resource distribution, gender equality, and sustainable development. As geographers, we understand that population growth affects not only human settlements but also the natural environment and resource availability. Therefore, balanced population management and awareness are essential for a sustainable future. Let us all commit to promoting education, health, and responsible family planning for the well-being of our planet and its people.

Dr. D. L. Kashid Patil inaugurated the posters prepared on the issue of population displayed by the students from the Junior Department of The New College, Kolhapur. At this time Dr. V. M.

Patil (Principal, The New College, Kolhapur), Dr. R. B. Bhaskar (HoD of Geography Department, NCK) and other faculty members of Geography Department were present.
